Vocabulary

Lesson: Why do plants give us fruit?

mystery science

offspring

babies

mystery science

reproduction

a stage in the life cycle of living things when they have offspring

mystery science

seed

a part of a plant that can grow into a baby plant

mystery science

fruit

the part of a plant that contains seeds inside a covering, like an apple

mystery science

flower

the reproductive part of some plants that can make seeds

mystery science

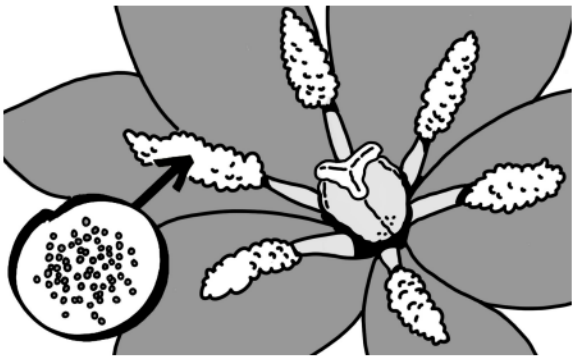

petal

mystery science

the colorful part of a flower

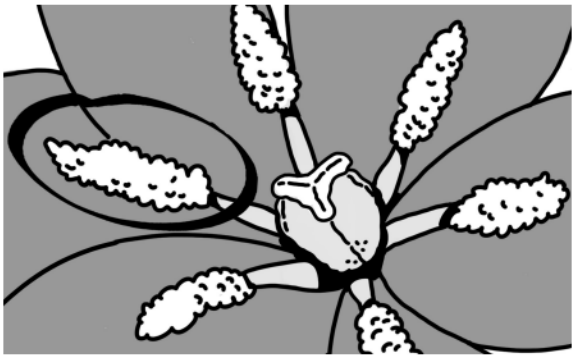

pollen

mystery science

a powder plants make that is involved in plant reproduction

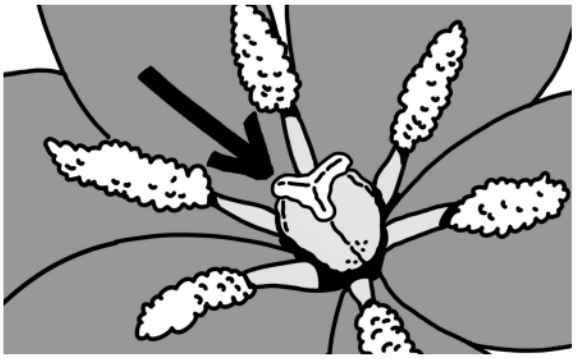

stamen

mystery science

the part of a flower that has pollen

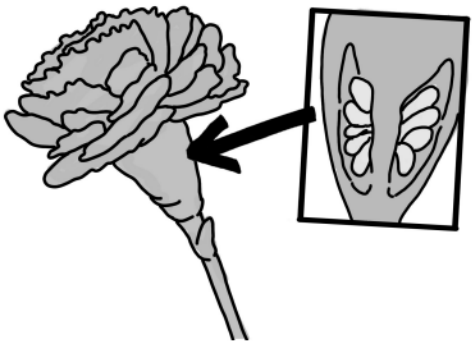

stigma

mystery science

the sticky part of a flower that pollen can stick to

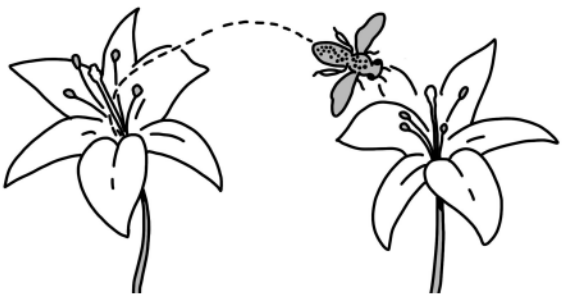

ovary

mystery science

part of a flower that contains its eggs

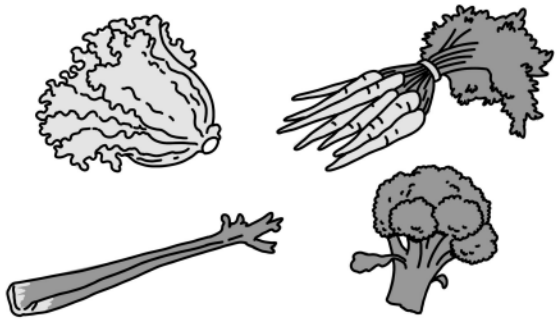

pollination

mystery science

the process of moving pollen from one part of a flower (the stamen) to another part of a flower (the stigma)

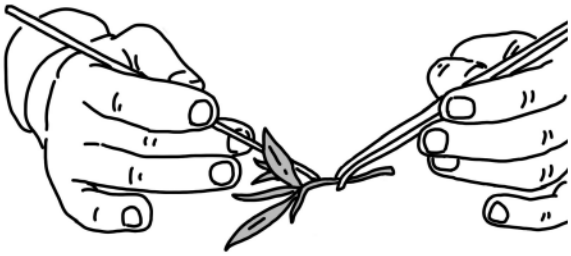

vegetable

mystery science

a plant part that humans eat, such as leaves, roots, or stems; does not include fruits, which contain seeds

dissect

mystery science

to take something apart to study it