Vocabulary

mystery science

Lesson: How do you send a secret code?

code	a system of words, letters, or other symbols that stand for other words, letters, or symbols communicate	to exchange information decode	to take a code and change it to a different form that can be understood electricity	a common word people use to talk about electrical energy and how it can be transferred from place to place engineer	a person who uses science to come up with solutions to problems inventor	someone who comes up with something new, often an object or a way of doing something pattern	something that happens again and again and again in a way that can be predicted sound	vibrations that you can usually hear with your ears transfer	to move from one place to another