Vocabulary

Lesson: What do dogs and pigeons have in common?

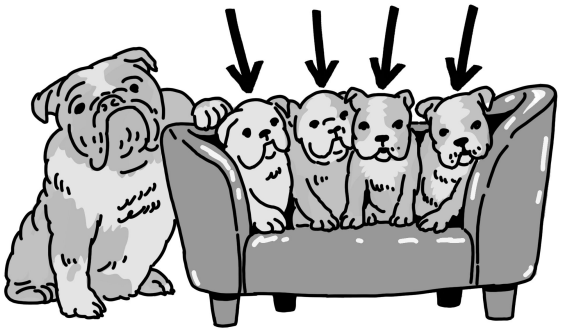

mystery science

offspring

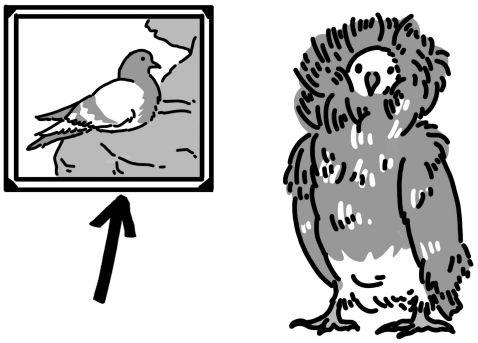

babies

siblings

offspring that have the same parents ancestor

a relative that lived long ago

trait

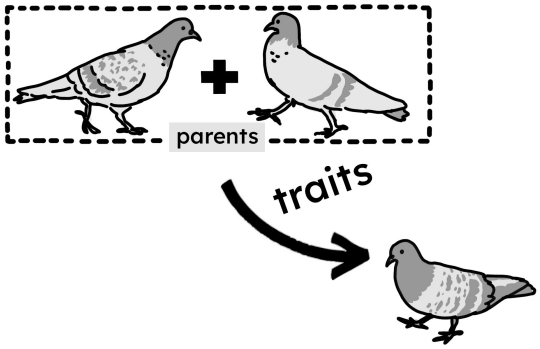

something you can observe about a living thing, such as the color of a pigeon's feathers variation

differences in a trait between living things of the same kind, such as different feather colors of pigeons inherit

mystery science

to get a trait from parents

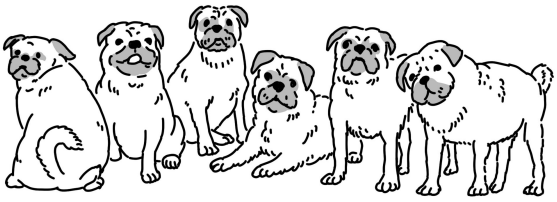

artificial selection

mystery science

the process of humans choosing certain traits of living things so that they are passed to the offspring

breed

mystery science

a group of living things with specific traits that have been selected by people over time; for example, pugs are a breed of dog