

Vocabulary

Lesson: Why do plants give us fruit?

mystery science

offspring

mystery science

babies

reproduction

mystery science

a stage in the life cycle of living things when they have offspring

seed

mystery science

a part of a plant that can grow into a baby plant

fruit

mystery science

the part of a plant that contains seeds inside a covering, like an apple

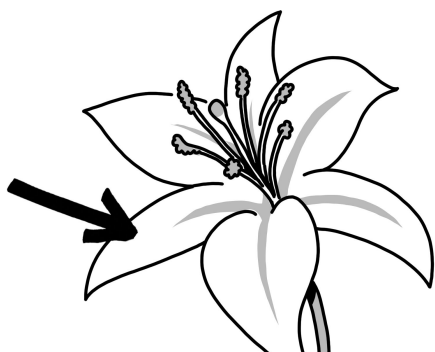

flower

mystery science

the reproductive part of some plants that can make seeds

petal

the colorful part of a flower

pollen

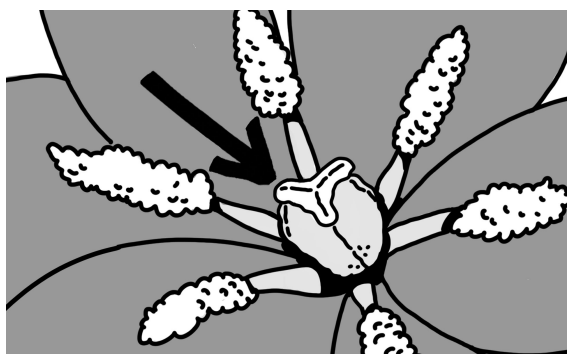

a powder plants make that is involved in plant reproduction

stamen

the part of a flower that has pollen stigma

the sticky part of a flower that pollen can stick to

ovary

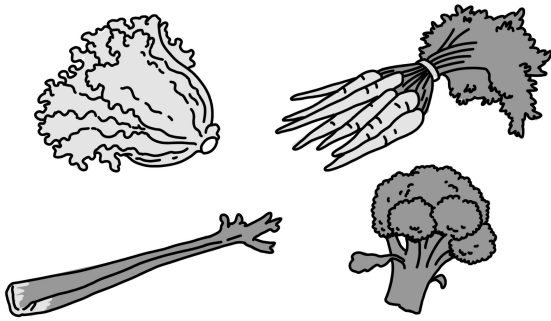

part of a flower that contains its eggs

pollination

the process of moving pollen from one part of a flower (the stamen) to another part of a flower (the stigma)

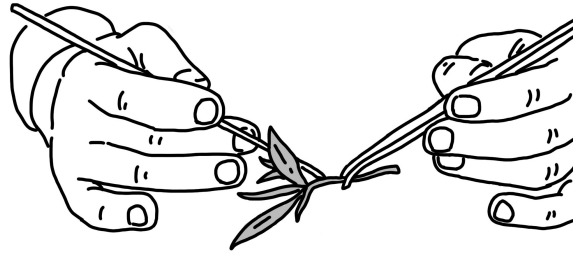

vegetable

mystery
science

a plant part that humans eat, such as leaves, roots, or stems; does not include fruits, which contain seeds

dissect

mystery
science

to take something apart to study it